Leading in New Worlds

COVID has changed our landscape, perhaps forever. As we start this new decade, we face a volatile and uncertain future. The demand on – and ask of – our leaders has suddenly changed. Many simply don't have the experience or capability to lead in a volatile, ambiguous and complex environment, yet organisational survival and future prosperity depends on them.

Our Leading in New Worlds programme will equip your leaders with the expertise and confidence they need to navigate and lead through the months and years ahead. Starting in September, based entirely on-line, our 4 month flexible programme will support leaders to:

- Create psychological safety to allow people to thrive wherever and however they work
 - Improve the performance of dispersed teams split between home and office
 - Flex their leadership style to navigate through and make decisions in a complex world
 - Constantly scan the horizon and seize opportunities to reinvent how you create value

Each leader will get:

- A preparation session to set them up for success
- 4 modules, each comprising of a 2 hour online workshop, followed by 21 days of coaching support to build new, high impact habits
- An individual coaching session at the end of the programme to help consolidate learning and create a follow up action plan
- A personal coach to track and support them through the programme

The cost of the programme is £995 plus VAT per leader. Each module is also available as a standalone offer, priced at £295 plus VAT.

We can also offer this programme ‘inhouse’ if you have 10 or more leaders.
